

Part One

General information

It is necessary for Herlufsholm to obtain personal information about students and their parents in connection with enrollment. The school uses this information solely for the purpose of meeting the school's obligation as a school.

Generally speaking the school collects ordinary personal information about a student, such as name, address, telephone number, sick days and other information necessary to run the school. However, the school also needs to obtain the student's CPR number. The reason why the school collects the student's CPR number is, among other things, the school's obligation towards the Ministry of Education in order to be able to apply for school funding, and also that the Ministry of Education needs to be able to check that the student is not registered at more than one school.

The school also collects general personal information about parents. The school does this to ensure that it has obtained all necessary information with respect to parental custody of the child and in order to be able to inform parents about, among other things, the school and the student's circumstances. It is a prerequisite for enrollment of students in the IB program that the school is allowed to share information about name, nationality, gender and date of birth with the IB organization.

The school needs as a minimum the following information about each student and his or her parents:

Name: _____

CPR no.: _____

Address: _____

Information about father

Name: _____

e-mail: _____

Phone (home and work): _____

The school points out that parents need to make themselves familiar with the school's policies in regard to collection, sharing, storage and the rights of the data subjects.

Consent to collection of personal data and permissions for other purposes

Herlufsholm only collects those consents and permissions that are relevant and currently necessary for the school. Consents and permissions are therefore not to be collected merely on the grounds that the school assumes that it will need this information within a given number of years.

Loyalty toward the school's set of values, withdrawal of the school offer, etc.

Herlufsholm points out that parents must familiarize themselves with the school's regulations listed on the school's website, and that parents must be loyal to the school's set of values and the school's other rules and guidelines.

The school has a set of payment and fee rules with which parents must stay familiar through the School Handbook, and we would like to point out in particular that both parties with parental authority are liable for the payment of the school fee.

If the parents wish to withdraw the child from the school, the school office must be contacted. We point out that Herlufsholm has a special set of guidelines for notice period for withdrawal, etc, as indicated in the School Handbook.

Information lists

It is the practice at Herlufsholm to produce and pass along information lists to parents so that the parents can get in contact with each other in connection with social events, birthdays, election of parent representatives, etc. Herlufsholm would like permission to pass along the following information about the students and their parents: Name, telephone number and email address

Images of school activities

In connection with the presentation of the school's programs, everyday life, etc, the school publicizes images in various contexts and on a variety of social media. If changes take place in the legal custody rights during the child's stay at the school, the parents are obligated to let the school know.
